1ST SEMESTER DOWN...

As the days wind down to winter break and you gear up for finals week, the RHA Executive Board would just like to say THANK YOU!. This past semester has been one of the most fun, successful, and inspiring for all involved. Not only have you used your community council funds to plan programs to bring your hall closer together but you also found opportunities to give back to your community through several service events. At the end of the day, it is about coming together to do something amazing for our one WVU home. Your contributions and participation in the Residence Hall Association makes a lasting impact not only on the residence halls, but also on the campus, regional, and national level. Good luck on finals and we will see you soon!

Winter Break Housing

"WVU's residence halls officially close for Winter Recess on Saturday, December 15, 2018 at noon, and reopen on Saturday, January 5, 2019 at noon. We realize that some residence hall students may need a place to stay during the recess period. Therefore, we are offering a solution - staying in town and on campus.

WVU's residence halls are offering housing options for students over Winter Break. A limited number of residence halls remain open during the break period, and space is available at an additional cost for those that register. For details, and to register, visit Break Housing.

The registration deadline is Wednesday, December 9.

Please contact the Housing Assignments Office at 304-293-2811 if you have any questions."

Residence Halls in Yellow Standing will receive a warning email from the RHA Executive Board. By responding to the email as requested, a Residence Hall will be returned to Green Standing.

Red Standing - Community Council is performing significantly below expectations. This may be due to 2 (or more) of the minor occurrences above or any major occurrence: submitting funding request without consent of RHC, 5 weeks of inactivity, a subsequent yellow standing warning, or anything else as deemed appropriate by the RHA Treasurer. Residence Halls in Red Standing will receive a notice email from the RHA Executive Board.
