WVU Goes Green

For the past couple of weeks, the RBC team has been collecting water bottles from various residence halls for the upcoming conference. This sustainability project was proposed in efforts to showcase the amount of plastic waste a resident creates in just a short, two-week period. While the final tally has yet to be announced, the results are already staggering. So, what can you do TODAY to cut down on waste and lessen your carbon footprint?

- 1) Invest in a reusable water bottle. We have refill stations all over campus!
- 2) Carry reusable shopping bags.
- 3) When grabbing a meal at the Lair or Crossing, avoid plastic lids and straws (it will be ok!)
- 4) Find out on how you can get involved with sustainability groups such as the Food Recovery Network!
